

Figure 8. A typical wetland area in the Rock Creek drainage.

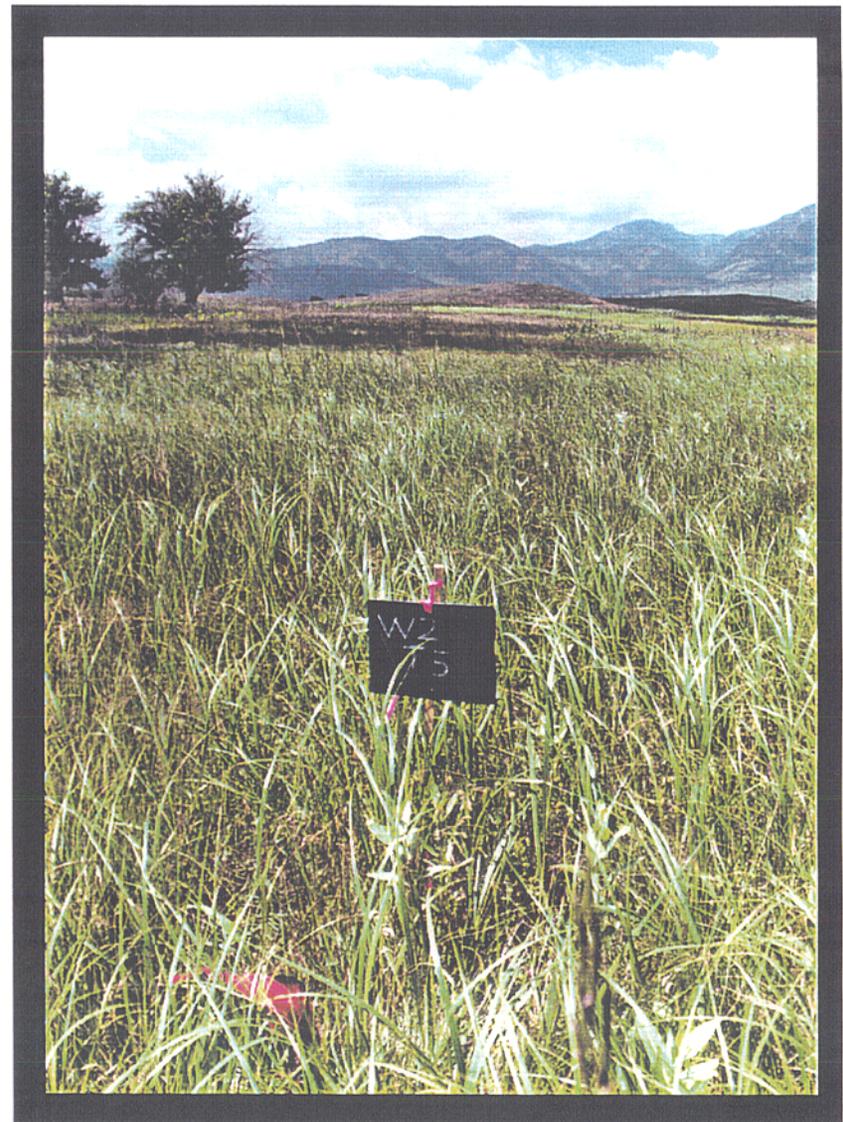

Figure 9. Prairie cordgrass dominated wetland type within the larger Apple Orchard Seep wetlands in Woman Creek.

Figure 10. Prairie cordgrass is a key species in the rare prairie cordgrass wetland type that occurs at the Site in small amounts.

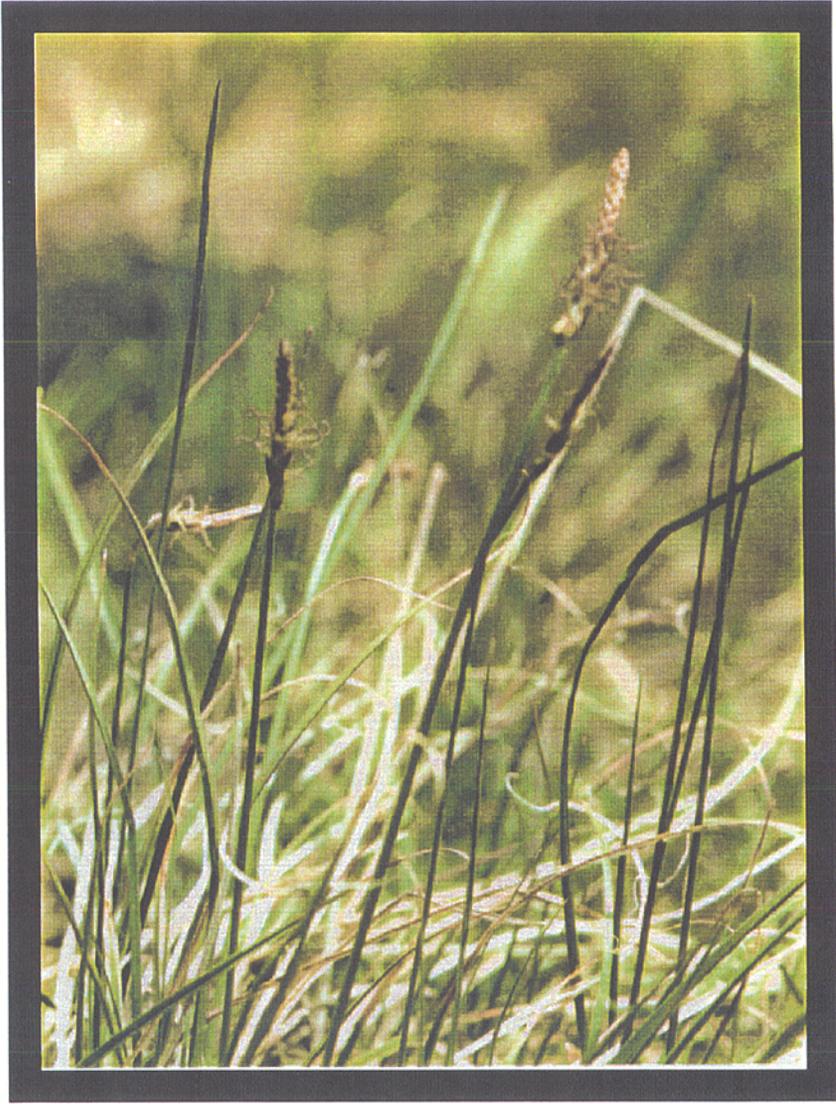

Figure 11. Mountain-loving sedge is a rare dry grassland sedge that occurs along the north edge of many of the ridgetops at Rocky Flats.